

Free Memory Upgrade for Your Bench Solutions

For a limited time, you can claim a free memory upgrade — up to $600 USD value — with your purchase of selected Keysight digital multimeters and function / waveform generators.

Keysight's PathWave BenchVue DMM and function generator applications make it simple to connect, control, and capture results. You can also export measurement data in standard formats for deeper level post-analysis work and report generation.

Keysight's 34465A / 34470A Series Truevolt digital multimeters give you unrivaled measurement performance that enables you to view your accurate signal while minimizing noise and ensure compliance to industry-leading standards.

Keysight's 33500B / 33600A Series Trueform function / waveform generators offer you better signal integrity, reduced jitter, and lower distortion than other function generators in its class.

There's never been a better time to purchase one of these bench instruments. The complimentary memory upgrade will give your bench a memory boost of up to two million readings using Keysight's digital multimeters or 64 MSamples with our function generators so you can do more in-depth testing.

More memory enables you to perform data logging over a longer time frame with digital multimeters, or you can now capture that elusive, transient signal in more detail. In waveform / function generators, more memory enables you to generate longer complex waveforms with many points and higher time resolution.
